The source added: “The princess has been unwell and has sought medical attention.

“It has been a worrying time for those around her.

“It has been difficult for those close to her to see her suffering. She’s really been through it.”

Last November, The Sun on Sunday revealed that Princess Michael had been diagnosed with Covid and was forced to self-isolate at her home in Kensington Palace, West London.

Her media spokesman Simon Astaire said last night: “I cannot comment on health issues.”

Earlier this month, government advisers said those aged 30 to 39 should be offered an alternative to the Oxford/AstraZeneca jab “where practically possible” because of blood clot fears.

Millions of its doses have been safely administered in Europe, but concerns linger over a rare type of clot seen in an extremely small number of recipients.

News of Princess Michael's blood clots comes a week after The Sunday Times reported her husband was willing to use his royal status for personal profit, and to seek favours from Russian president Vladimir Putin.

HARRY FEARS

A LEADING clinical psychologist has warned that Prince Harry will have to work hard if he wants to avoid turning into his own father as a parent.

Dr Andrew Mendonsa praised his "courage" in talking about his mental health and said being trapped in a life you no longer want can sometimes "stunt" you.

It follows Harry's podcast interview with Dax Shepard last Thursday when he criticised Prince
